

Neil Titman

CEO of Kulturalis Ltd.

Neil Titman is one of the publishing industry's most experienced international executives in the fields of art, museums and cultural heritage. For almost three decades, he has developed and delivered high-quality publications for leading cultural institutions around the world.

His career began at the renowned Folio Society in the United Kingdom. He subsequently held senior positions at Third Millennium Publishing and Scala Arts & Heritage Publishers, overseeing publishing projects for institutions including the British Library, the Bodleian Library in Oxford, the Hermitage Museum in St Petersburg, The Metropolitan Museum of Art in New York, Louvre Abu Dhabi and the Guggenheim Museum Bilbao.

In 2023, he co-founded Kulturalis Ltd. in London with Charlotte Kramer. The company specialises in high-quality publications for museums, libraries and cultural institutions and, within just a few years, has already delivered projects in 17 countries across five continents. In addition to his role as Managing Director, Titman is responsible for international business development, with a particular focus on the growth markets of Southeast Asia.

A scholar with a doctorate in Literature, Titman combines publishing excellence with an extensive international network and makes a significant contribution to the global positioning of Universal Art Group and its companies.
